HAS there ever been a season to compare with this one for the number of league crabs who have sold their chief scorers? It's unthinkable. Look at the list: Arsenal (Joe Baker), Bury (Ray Pointer and Colin Bell), Coventry City (George Hudson), Crystal Palace (Brian Whitehouse), Plymouth Argyle (Mike Trebilcock), Walsall (Allan Clarke), Watford (Cliff Holton), Workington (Kit Napier), York City (Paul Aimson), Barnsley (George Kerr), Bradford City (Roy Ellam), and Lincoln City (Barry Hutchinson).

WHY is it that Wales seems to be the only one of the four home countries to consider Fourth Division soccer to be worth looking at for international purposes? In April, 1959, Wales made Vic Rouse, then Crystal Palace's goalkeeper, the first Fourth Division player to figure in a full international. This season York City goalkeeper Mike Walker and Wrexham half-back Dave Powell have received Wales Under-23 selection.
